

Behavioral Health and Integration Training Institute

A partnership between Radford University Department of Counselor Education, Southwest VA Community Health Systems and Stone Mountain Health Services

May 12-16
8 a.m. to 5 p.m.
Radford University

The Behavioral Health and Integration Training Institute is a 40-hour continuing education training offered in a one-week format, targeted to current mental and behavioral health professionals interested in furthering their skill and knowledge base on integration and behavioral health. Participants will be eligible to receive continuing education credits through Radford University.

Upon completion of this training, participants will be able to:

- understand basic concepts in primary care and behavioral health integration
- expand their knowledge in structural integration
- enhance their clinical skill development in order to provide better services in a Federally Qualified Health Center/primary care environment
- understand the basics of the financial structure/billing codes

Institute Instructors:

Bill McFeature, Ph.D. holds a doctorate in Clinical Psychology and possesses 16 years of specialized training in primary care and behavioral health integration. He has been the Director of Integrative Behavioral Healthcare Services for Southwest Virginia Community Health Systems, Inc. since 2005. Dr. McFeature also serves as a training and practice consultant nationally. He recently published a preliminary integrative care study in the Journal of Health Disparities for Research and Practice.

Sally Pennings, FNP, is a family nurse practitioner at Saltville Medical Center. She has significant expertise in medical systems and the interfacing between behavioral health consultants and medical teams.

Marcy Rosenbaum, LCSW, is a Behavioral Health Specialist at Saltville Medical Center. She is also a specialist in substance abuse disorders and treatment.

Joshua Bradley, PsyD, is a licensed clinical psychologist and currently serves as the Psychology Internship Coordinator and Behavioral Health Provider at Stone Mountain Health Services.
