

Certified Community Behavioral Health Clinic (CCBHC) Consulting and Implementation Support

For State Behavioral Health Associations

The Certified Community Behavioral Health Clinic (CCBHC) model is bringing transformative change to the delivery of mental health and substance use treatment services across the nation, establishing a financial foundation for communities to expand access to these critical services for those who need them most. As clinics and state policymakers navigate these changes, the National Council for Mental Wellbeing's CCBHC Success Center is here to help with consultation and implementation support customized to clients' unique needs.

State associations of mental health and substance use treatment organizations have played a leading role in CCBHC implementation. The National Council offers support to our member associations seeking to advance the CCBHC model in their states.
